

2. Telecommuting' refers to workers doing their jobs from home for part of each week and communicating with their office using computer technology. Telecommuting is growing in many countries and is expected to be common for most office workers in the coming decades. How do you think people will be affected by the growth of telecommuting?

Universally, 'there is nothing permanent except change' is true as working styles and methods have changed owing to the advent of modern techniques in the globalized world. Hence, majority is turning towards working from home rather going outside to work. However, this essay tends to deal with both brighter and darker side of the issue.

Telecommuting has multifarious supporting elements in the society. First and foremost is that it provides freedom in the working atmosphere because workers involving in telecommuting are not subject to any of the bosses to follow order every time. Even, they are not restricted by the working timing (the working timing does not restrict them). Thus, people who work from their home through modern ways can enjoy their workforce according to their wishes.

Another positive effect is that telecommuting workers can also participate in multi-tasking, which is indeed the need of an hour as they get plenty of timing during daytime. To illustrate, if a person is working for a company to maintain their accounts and all then he or she can do this over the night or in the evenings. Eventually, he or she has lot of time in the day to initiate any other work

On the other side, sometimes it can lead to some negative consequences also. Like, Seriousness such as discipline and punctuality, concentration towards one's job may not be built due to no prohibition, time limits and pressure of the authorities. Consequently, it may also result in building bad habits like being lazy towards work in them.

To sum up, I believe that telecommuting has both positive and negative sides, which depends and come to a person according to a way he or she behaves. Therefore, I suggest that every telecommuting worker most observe the consequences of being not serious and work in home as in some workplace.
