

5. Nowadays environmental problems are too big to be managed by individual persons or individual countries. In other words, it is an international problem. To what extent do you agree or disagree?

Introduction- An essential problem of the 21st century is world pollution. Currently the environment is so contaminated that urgent measures should be taken, however, it is not an individual's problem a joint action can only curb this issue.

- Government- Joint efforts and consolidation can only help in the mutual war against the ongoing environmental disaster.
- Governments should offer support to companies and organizations, involved in manufacturing, industry or agriculture in order to find environment-friendly approaches
- Individual- The influence of individuals over environment should not be ignored. We have to contribute every day to the preservation of nature and environment
- Obligation is to separate waste and throw bulk only in the designated areas. Driving vehicles can also be environment friendly

Conclusion- local and international authorities as well as individuals should handle environmental problems.
